A Great International Demonstration Addressed by Eugene Crean.

Entire Attempt of Constabulary to Stop Meeting by Brute Force.

Tallow Leaguers Given Reception Before Commencement of Trials.

THE DUBLIN FREEMAN'S REPORT

The arrival of the nine traversers in the Tallow conspiracy case in our city on Monday night for the purpose of taking their trial before Pether the Packer on Tuesday morning served to remind one of the old days. The Nationalists of the city resolved to give them a reception, and made arrangements accordingly. This was a trifle too much for the nerves of the authorities. They became at once alarmed, and warning notices were sent to all city hands who proposed to participate in the demonstration to the effect that if they appeared on the streets they would be dispersed, or in other words, hounded. A like notice was served on Eugene Crean, M. P., who traveled from London at the request of the Chairman of the Irish party to greet the sturdy Tallow Leaguers. The document informed Crean that any attempt to hold a public meeting would be suppressed by force. With a view to perpetuate this outrage on the right of public meeting an array of brute force was brought out and stationed in the principal thoroughfares, giving one the feeling that he was in a city under siege. If the authorities are satisfied with the measure of success that rewarded their labor, so are the Nationalists of Cork. Their action only helped to make the demonstration all the more remarkable. The police defeated their own ends, and the night proved one of triumph for the men of the Rebel City. The train bearing the Tallow "conspirators" reached the city at 8 o'clock, and when the brave Leaguers stepped on the platform they were greeted with prolonged and hearty cheers by a large body of well known Nationalists. In the meantime the police were busy making preparations outside the railway station. We were honored by having Resident Magistrate Mayne in supreme command; County Inspector Gamble was the first lieutenant of the occasion, and then we had smaller fry in the persons of District Inspectors Morrison of Cork, Heard of Tallow and Howes of Malton. They had 100 men under their control, and in an excited fashion were getting their positions into position while the Tallow "conspirators" were being cheered to a wagonette drawn up outside. It was known that the party were to proceed to the rooms of the United Irish League in Great George's street, and the entire route was lined by large crowds, who enthusiastically cheered as the cavalcade passed along, the rear of which was brought up by the large and wholly unnecessary posse of police already mentioned.

A number of mounted policemen also graced the gathering by their presence. Matters went on rather uneventfully until the end of King street was reached, when the Blackpool brass band made their appearance on the scene despite the threat hung at them by the authorities in the earlier portion of the day. Their presence operated like a red rag to a bull. A charge of the mounted men was ordered, while the blue-coated infantry drew a cordon across the street for the purpose of preventing the band and the huge crowd that followed them from taking their place in the procession. The mounted men drew their truncheons and used them as far as the fleetness of foot of the "boys from the groves of de pool" would permit.

They got little room for the display of their energy, however, and before long the tables were completely turned on them. The members of the band all began to play their instruments on their own accord and the discordant results proved disastrous to the brave mounted bluecoated men. Their horses reared and pranced beyond all control, and the blue-coated heroes had to stand the laughter and ridicule of the vast gathering without the satisfaction of drawing blood from a single skull. The people ran through the side streets and succeeded in joining in the demonstration as it entered Patrick street. At this point fifty-nine more men under District Inspector Moriarty, of Ballincollig, arrived on the scene, but the people cared not one jot. For the sake of "old times" they welcomed, regardless of the consequences, the appearance of the policemen's baton. Several skirmishes took place along Patrick street, but the baton men were sorely tried, for the good sense of the people gave them no opportunity for displaying their readiness to crack a Nationalist's skull wherever it presented itself. They were altogether the aggressors; the people assembled for a lawful purpose; they kept that fact in view and they broke down the hopes of the gentlemen of the force, who fondly cherished the belief that their performances on the heads of an unoffending and defenseless people would justify their existence and gain for them increased pay for doing what they have been doing all their lives—little or nothing. True, they succeeded in injuring a few on Monday night, but the amount of work done in that direction was a very small return for all the trouble they had taken to terrorize the good men and true of Cork. They did one thing at all events which we give them credit for. The outcome of all their display was simply this, that a larger, more influential and more enthusiastic meeting of the Cork branch of the United Irish League never took place. When the Tallow men arrived at the rooms of the League they found a splendid assemblage of Nationalists to greet and cheer them, and this in the teeth of every energy and strategy on the part of police to prevent the people from getting within 200 yards of the building. They made cordons at either end of the street, and the citizen who dared to exercise his perfectly legal right to walk up or down was roughly pushed back and threatened with a baton stroke if he persisted.

Eugene Crean, M. P. who was in the thick of the fight from the railway station, was moved to the chair, and he, with P. F. Walsh, Chairman of the Waterford County Council, J. J. Walsh and Alexander Heskin, three of the traversers, delivered stirring speeches in denunciation of the wretched system of jury-packing to which they were so accustomed in Cork. Several local Nationalists also spoke on the subject, and the whole proceedings of Monday night may be summed up in the one fact that they have done more for the National organization in this city, and made the people more alive to its worth as a power in the land than speeches and demonstrations, undisturbed by the constabulary, could accomplish in a generation.

The trial of the traversers commenced before Lord Pether on Tuesday morning, and the crowded condition of the court made clear the general interest which the case had excited. There were several interesting passages during the day. The Crown case had not concluded at the rising of the court, and by the direction of his lordship the jury were locked up in the Imperial Hotel for the night. His lordship's parting advice to them was—not to read the newspapers.

LIFE'S WORK ENDED.

New Albany Loses Another Old and Respected Citizen.

Andrew McBarron, one of the most familiar figures on the streets of New Albany for many years past, and an honored and devoted member of Holy Trinity congregation, peacefully passed to the great beyond last Sunday night at his home on East Spring street. Though seventy-two years old, the deceased enjoyed good health until within the past year, when he was attacked with heart trouble, since when never did Christian character show itself more typically. Not only did he await the end with patience and resignation, but never lost thoughtfulness for those around him, often compelling smiles from those who listened when they would rather have wept.

CATHOLIC CHURCHES

Will Have a Great Picnic at Eminence on Thursday, August 22.

The Catholic churches at Pewee Valley, Eminence, Lagrange and Bedford, under the charge of Rev. John P. McFarland, have arranged for a grand picnic and field day at the Eminence Fair Grounds on Thursday, August 22. A special train will leave the first street depot at 7:30 o'clock in the morning, and returning will leave Eminence at 7:30 in the evening, and for this the rates have been reduced.

There will be plenty of amusements, including a game of base ball between Louisville and Pleasureville teams, buggy and sack races, catching greased pig, etc., and a bounteous dinner will be served, tickets for all of which are only forty-five cents. This is a rare opportunity to spend a pleasant day, and all who can should encourage Father McBarron by putting in an appearance that day at the Eminence Fair Grounds.

PATRICK DUNN DEAD.

Patrick Dunn, the well known stone-cutter, who for some time past has been working in Alabama, was stricken with heart disease last Sunday at Ensley, and the news of his death was a great shock to his family and friends here. His remains arrived here Monday night and were taken to the family residence, Twenty-eighth and Marine avenue. Mr. Dunn was forty-two years old, and he leaves a wife and seven children survive him. The funeral took place Wednesday morning from the Church of Our Lady, the Rev. Father Conniff being the celebrant of the solemn requiem mass.

ST. DOMINIC.

His Memory Celebrated With Pomp and Magnificence Sunday.

Services Were Solemn and the Music Grand and Sermon Eloquent.

Never Before Did St. Louis Bertrand's Look More Beautiful.

SOLENN MASS BY THE FRANCISCANS

Catholics, both clergymen and laymen, from all over the city assembled at St. Louis Bertrand's church on Sixth street near St. Catherine last Sunday to do honor to the memory of St. Dominic, the founder of the devotion of the Rosary and the founder of the order of Friar Preachers. Never in its history did this always handsome edifice present so beautiful yet quiet and peaceful an appearance. The pomp and magnificence of the Catholic church was lent to make this a day of days to the faithful people of the congregation. The services were solemn, the music grand, the sermon magnificent. Words can not describe it. It had to be heard to be appreciated. Understand it was not sensational. It was a plain matter-of-fact yet eloquent and graphic portrayal of St. Dominic, his life work, the result of his work and the results that are still being attained by the followers of St. Dominic.

Two of the great missionary orders in the Catholic church are the Franciscans, or followers of St. Francis, and the Dominicans, or followers of St. Dominic. Both have churches in Louisville. The Franciscans resident in Louisville are probably without exception Germans or German-Americans. The Dominicans resident in Louisville are nearly all Irish or Irish-Americans. But race makes no difference in the Catholic religion; the church is one, and therefore on St. Dominic's day the brown habited followers of St. Francis are invited by the white and black clothed followers of St. Dominic to assist in celebrating the memory of the founder of their order. When in turn St. Francis's day rolls around the Franciscans invite the Dominicans to St. Bouffice church, where they are honored by celebrating mass. So on these occasions the religious in whose churches the rites are being performed stand aside and let the visitors celebrate mass.

Then, too, the rites are different in a degree, and the Dominicans have to carry their altar boys or acolytes with them when they visit the Franciscans to celebrate mass, and likewise the Franciscans have to bring acolytes trained to their rites when they visit the Dominicans.

The main celebration began at 10:30 o'clock with solemn high mass. Very Rev. Father Paul A.H. O. S. F., was celebrant of the mass, with deacon, sub-deacon and master of ceremonies.

In the sanctuary were the white-robed Dominicans without the black preaching cloak. Among them were Very Rev. Father Fowler, O. P., Prior; Rev. Fathers McFeeley, O'Mahoney, Kelly, Just, Pulinc, all of the Order of Preachers, and Very Rev. Father Felix Ward, of the Sacred Heart Retreat; Father P. M. Rock, of the Cathedral; Rev. Father Walsh, of Sacred Heart church, and in the choir were Rev. Father Weiss, of St. George's church, and Rev. Father Ackermann, of St. Philip Neri's.

The scene in the sanctuary was impressive from the moment the celebrant uttered the "Asperges" before mass began. Then the splendid choir, under the direction of Prof. Charles Weiss, added to the beauty and solemnity of the occasion with a splendid rendition of Haydn's "Imperial Mass." Gounod's "Benedictus" was interpreted near the close of the mass. After the gospel Rev. Father W. Dunn, O. P., one of the many illustrious orators for which the Dominican order is famous, ascended the pulpit. He is small but not delicate; robust but not stout, with fine eyes, a clear complexion, dark, wavy hair, a broad, splendid forehead, easy of gesture, a voice full of magnetism and clear enunciation, rapid and fluent in style.

Contrary to the usual order of things, Father Dunn laid as much stress on the publications for the coming week as he did on his sermon. His congregation was spellbound from the beginning.

Then quietly, yet clearly, he began: "My brethren, I want to tell you today a few things about St. Dominic." He did, too. He had them to tell, and he told them in a simple yet forcible manner. It is no easy thing to preach a sermon on a man who has been dead 680 years, and who in all that time has been honored by the Catholic church; whose life work has been the subject of panegyrics of famous orators for nearly seven centuries. The story is old.

The charm of Father Dunn's oratory was that he told it in a new way. Carefully and succinctly Father Dunn traced the life and character of St. Dominic from his birth to the estate of man, of his ordination in his twenty-fifth year, of the horrors of the Albigensian heresy that sprang up in France about the year 1180 A. D.

The Albigensians believed there were two Gods—a God of goodness and a God of evil. They believed that the God of evil made everything that was visible, including man; they believed that marriage was a predestination for damnation; they denied the incarnation of Christ and reviled the mother of Christ. Father Dunn told how in his thirty-fifth year Dominic, fired with zeal to save the souls of sinners, undertook the conversion of these heretics. The life of a saint, he said, was walking with and communicating with God. God was the motive power in all their acts. Dominic never spoke unless it was of God.

He told of Dominic's journeyings and sermons among the Albigensians, briefly related how the devotion of the Rosary was revealed to Dominic, of the founding of the order of Dominicans, in which was combined the contemplative and active life. And he told of his death in his fifty-first year—1221 A. D. It is the day of St. Dominic's death, of his entrance into the kingdom of heaven, that is celebrated—not the anniversary of his birth. Then rapidly and eloquently he followed up the works of the followers of St. Dominic all over the world. He referred to St. Thomas, St. Louis Bertrand, St. Rose of Lima, the first canonized saint of the new world, and many others. Last, but by no means least, he closed his peroration with a magnificent tribute to Savanarola, "the priest who was not afraid to attack vice in high places, who upbraided impurity, who fought tyranny, but was branded at one time as schismatic."

Elsewhere than in a Catholic church Father Dunn would have been applauded. Instead, men and women bowed their heads in prayer and wiped away tears—tears of joy that there were yet among their men who had the eloquence of a Dominic, of a Lacordaire, of a Father Tom Burke; tears of sorrow that they had not led better lives, had not followed the precepts of St. Dominic and his illustrious disciples. After the mass the visiting clergymen were entertained at dinner in the Dominican convent.

At 7:30 o'clock in the evening solemn vespers were sung, followed by the Rosary procession, a sermon on the Rosary and benediction of the blessed sacrament.

LITTLE SISTERS.

They Are Sadly In Need of a Horse For Their Work.

The attention of the public is called to the fact that the Sisters of the Poor are now suffering from the inconvenience of having no horse to carry them about on their work of charity for the aged and infirm poor who are their charge. When the late kind and loyal hearted William Patterson was living he always looked to it that a suitable horse was ever in readiness to help these truly Christian women in their daily work of supererogation. Since his death, however, no one has taken his place, and their discomfort has accordingly not been quite a little. We feel certain that of the many well-to-do Catholic laymen of this city some one can come forward and take up the good work that was cut short by the death of Billy Patterson. This has not been the only charitable work that has suffered in his death. Are there not also some rich women who can make themselves felt in the community as well as men?

MACK RAIDY DEAD.

Succumbs Friday Morning to an Attack of Typhoid Fever.

Mack Raidy, one of the most widely known young men in the West End and a prominent member of Mackin Council, is dead, and the news comes as a great shock to all who knew him. Last fall he suffered an attack of rheumatism, from which he had apparently recovered and his friends and relatives were elated until about three weeks ago, when he was stricken with typhoid fever, which proved fatal yesterday morning. For the bereaved parents and brothers there is the deepest sympathy everywhere. The funeral will take place Sunday from St. Cecilia's.

HOLY CROSS CHURCH.

The annual lawn fête and festival for the benefit of Holy Cross church, which will be held on the grounds of Henry Koch, Thirty-first and Broadway on the evenings of August 21 and 22, promises to surpass last year. Father Cunningham and his friends are leaving nothing undone that would tend to make this the banner fête of the season.

INJURED HIS ANKLE.

Charles Parsons, a well known and popular young man, sustained a severe injury to his ankle Saturday night while indulging in athletic exercises at the Y. M. C. A. gymnasium. Although confined to his home for the past week his friends expect him to be able to be out again in a few days.

VISITING IN COLORADO.

Rev. Father Burke, of Paris, Ky., who is visiting in Colorado, with Father McMenamin, of Colorado Springs, was last week the guest of Father McCourt at Idaho Springs.

DAVITT.

Famous Irish Patriot Given a Hearty Welcome at New York.

Declares That England's Boasted Supremacy is a Mere Memory.

Emigration Will Depopulate Ireland If Not Soon Stopped.

ENGLAND'S MOTIVE IN SOUTH AFRICA

Michael Davitt, who has spent more than half the years of his life in the cause of free Ireland, arrived in New York Saturday on the steamer St. Paul, of the American line, from Southampton. The great agitator was received at the pier by representatives of the leading Irish societies and given a hearty welcome. The object of his visit is purely a personal one—merely to see relatives and friends—and he will remain in this country several weeks. He has engagements, however, to make speeches in Chicago and other principal cities in the United States before he returns. Mr. Davitt is in the best of health and thoroughly enjoyed his trip across the ocean, which made his eighteenth voyage.

When asked to say something in reply to the cable reports of the speech made by Chamberlain in the House of Commons with regard to the war in South Africa, the distinguished visitor replied: "I hardly believe he made the assertions credited to him and should prefer to withhold my criticism until more authentic confirmation can be secured. If he did make the criminal statements credited to him I should say he had temporarily lost his senses. England all during the Boer war has been engaging and arming the natives, while the Boers have never employed any Kaffirs. This I know to be absolutely true, for I was all through South Africa last year and carefully looked over the situation. During the attack on Mafeking the British used Kaffirs on the advance, forming two parties, who made sorties on the Boer position under the direction of Gen. Baden-Powell."

War is war, and the Boers would be very foolish if they do not shoot these natives when they find they are arraigned against them. How do they differ in this respect from British troops? Now it is proposed to make the Boers suffer the death penalty if found guilty of killing natives. Suppose the Boers had killed their prisoners at the outset, what would have been the consequence? They had more than 20,000 at one time. At the beginning of the war it was agreed that no natives should be engaged in the conflict. The Boers have religiously kept their part of that agreement, but the English have not. There can be no doubt about that.

I have been all around the world, and I have never met a finer or braver lot of people than the Boers. They will fight as long as their ammunition holds out, and will not give up until their last cartridge has been fired. They don't expect to receive any financial aid from America, nor any help in the way of recruits. So far they have had only about 2,000 outsiders, all told, to assist them, and these were mostly the miners engaged in the mines at Johannesburg. They formed little laagers and called themselves the American, Irish, Italian or French brigade, according to their composition. At no time have the Boers had more than 32,000 men in the field, and during the past few months this number has been reduced to about one-third that number.

The population of the Transvaal and Orange Free State, including women and children, is only about 200,000, and I have seen boys less than fourteen years old carrying arms. The English have had about 250,000 troops in South Africa, which can be seen in 50,000 more than the whole Boer population. Had the Boers had 10,000 more men at one time I believe they could have been victorious. It is an unjust war—a giant against a dwarf—and I am proud to say our sympathies are with the Boers and against England, whose enemy we will for the time being incur. The Boers must meet inevitable defeat, but my information is to the effect that they will be able to carry on the war for at least a twelve-month longer. I can not speak officially, but I do not believe Mr. Kruger will pay a visit to the United States. He is a fine old gentleman, and the fight he and his people are making for justice and liberty is quite the same as the one in which we are engaged.

What was England's primal intention in this war? To steal the Rand mines. Now what has this criminal purpose cost so far? Between $8,000,000 and $10,000,000 a week, and up to the present time a taxation indebtedness of $1,000,000,000 has been incurred. The Government consols have depreciated since the inception of hostilities from $117 to $92, and over $500,000,000 of these are held in England. Other securities have depreciated in sympathy, but not to as large an extent. Besides this there has been a general commercial loss to England consequent to her ships being employed to transport troops, and this falling off in carrying trade will not go back. Some of it has been secured by American shipping concerns and other foreign forwarders, who will continue to retain this business. This of itself is a big loss to sustain.

But the worst of all to England is her loss of military prestige. There is not a country that cares a straw for her now. The Boer war has thoroughly demonstrated that England can no longer retain her boasted military supremacy. I know absolutely nothing about any proposed American armed invasion into Ireland. In fact I have never heard it suggested. My fellow-Americans know the laws of their country and they will not do anything contrary to them. They will always remember that they are American citizens first and will not do anything to bring disgrace upon themselves.

I purpose consulting with leading Irish-Americans on the subject of immigration, which, if not stopped, will in a short time depopulate my native land. We want to keep some of the people at home. There are only half as many people there now as there were when I was born in 1846. If it is checked it will also benefit conditions in the United States.

WHO WILL WIN?

Great Crowd Will Witness Drawing For Piano Monday.

Next Monday night on the beautiful grounds surrounding the rectory of St. Paul's church, on Jackson street, there will be given an ice cream festival, at which the drawing for the grand upright piano offered as a prize to the patrons of last week's excursion will take place. Rev. Father York, the beloved pastor, is highly elated over the social and financial success of the annual outing of his congregation, which was without doubt the largest of the year, and a handsome sum was realized to assist in his commendable work.

All ticket holders should be present Monday evening. The young ladies and gentlemen of the congregation will constitute themselves a reception committee and have arranged for a most enjoyable evening for their friends. The interest in the drawing is intense and will undoubtedly attract a large gathering of Father York's friends, to all of whom he tenderly his sincere thanks for helping in making this year's outing such a decided success.

MACKIN COUNCIL.

Arranging For Grand Initiation—Basket Picnic Tuesday.

Mackin Council is arranging for a grand initiation during the month of September, when it is expected fifty new members will be added to the rolls of this popular society.

Messrs. William Kerberg, Charles Raidy, Fred Herp, Louis Heck, Dan Conniff and George Semous reported at the meeting this week that special arrangements had been completed for the old-fashioned basket picnic to be given at Sugar Grove next Tuesday. As this is given by request, and will be the only excursion to Sugar Grove, extra efforts will be made by the young ladies and gentlemen of the council to make the occasion one of real enjoyment. The boats will leave Portland and New Albany both morning and noon. Amusements of various kinds will be provided and a good band will furnish music.

CATHOLIC KNIGHTS.

Thousands Will Accompany Them to Jasper, Ind.

The excursion tomorrow morning of the Central Committee of the Catholic Knights of America to Jasper, Ind., will doubtless be the largest that has ever left Louisville, requiring three sections. The committees in charge have made every arrangement for the comfort of the excursionists, and a happy reception awaits them at Jasper. Nothing has been left undone by the pastor there, who will be assisted by his parishioners in receiving the visitors. Remember the trains leave the Seventh-street depot at 7 a. m. sharp. Those who have charge of this affair are deserving of the greatest credit for their excellent work.

MARRIAGE A SURPRISE.

John Hughes, a former prominent citizen of Portsmouth, O., but now manager of the Sanitarium Hotel at Martinsville, Ind., and Mrs. Nannie Dubourg, one of the most lovable women in Limerick, were quietly united in marriage Thursday at noon at the Dominican church, Rev. Father Fowler performing the ceremony. Both move in the best society circles, and so well had they guarded their engagement that their most intimate friends were taken by surprise when the news became known. After a wedding dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Martin Niles the happy couple left for an extended honeymoon trip East. They will return in about a month and will reside at Martinsville.

Salt placed on the gum when a tooth has been extracted will prevent profuse bleeding at such a time.

ST. CATHERINE'S.

Joy and Gladness Prevail on the Anniversary of St. Dominic.

Catherine Murnane Takes Vows and Becomes Sister Mary Ligouri.

Novices Who Had Completed Their First Year Advanced.

IMPRESSIONS AFTER LONG ABSENCE

The recurrence of festive days bring joy and gladness to the pious Christian and devout religious alike. No day in the calendar of the church is more eagerly looked for or more fondly remembered than St. Dominic's day, not only by his children, but by the hosts of people in the world who have come under the gentle influence of the lives and teachings of his white-robed followers. No matter in what land or in what clime a Dominican may elect to labor "for Jesus" he unites with his brethren all over the world in the annual celebration on August 8. At St. Catherine's each year the good Sisters and their friends gather to pay homage to their founder, and at the same time to witness the reception and profession of young women who have partially or wholly completed their term of trial.

This year the services were unusually beautiful and impressive, and we are sure that many of the visitors will go away from St. Catherine's with lasting impressions of their deep religious beauty, though they may not be able to penetrate the depths of spiritual loveliness symbolized in the ceremonial.

For eight days before the feast of St. Dominic the aspirant for the habit and those who had completed their first year of noviceship retire unto solitude that God may speak to their hearts. Although the secrets of that retirement are known but to each soul, the clear shining light on the uplifted countenances of the candidates when they presented themselves before the celebrant in the sanctuary told the story of long and earnest prayer with God.

The altars of the devotion chapel were ablaze with light and lavishly decorated with beautiful flowers. The church was well filled with the Sisters and their friends when at the appointed hour, 9:30 a. m., the candidate for the habit, Miss Catherine Murnane, of Newfoundland, in bridal attire walked into the sanctuary and prostrated herself at the foot of the altar. The celebrant, Rev. Father De Praine, conducted the service in his usual dignified manner, ably assisted by Rev. Father Roach, novice master of St. Rose. Father De Praine's instructions to the "Bride-elect of Jesus" was particularly impressive. After the mystic espousal Catherine Murnane in bridal robes had disappeared from the world and instead lived Sister Mary Ligouri, in the white habit and black mantle of St. Dominic, having chosen to leave all and follow Christ. During the service the choir, composed of Sisters, rendered the beautiful hymn, "The Divine Call," one stanza of which will linger with many of us:

"Come, my daughter, come away,
Leave the world with all its dross.
I would have thee watch and pray,
I would have thee bear the cross."

The novices who had completed their first year of novitiate then advanced. They were Sister Mary Colett, formerly Miss Nellie Buckley, of South Boston, and Sister Mary Leone, Miss Edna Ferrell, of Louisville. Kneeling in the sanctuary at the feet of the Mother Prioress, with hands resting on the open ones of the Mother, each read aloud the solemn act of profession. The Prioress accepts the sacrifice and the Sisters kneel again before the celebrant to hear the solemn words of espousal. The choir then rendered the great hymn of praise, the "Te Deum Laudamus," and the newly professed retired to the Sisters' choir to receive the kiss of peace from their "Sisters in Christ."

One who had not visited St. Catherine's since '97 was forcibly struck by the many improvements both in buildings and grounds, and the general air of prosperity evinced on all sides. Among the many improvements we might mention the Magdalen Chapel and the beautiful statue of the Sacred Heart of Jesus recently erected. The chapel of St. Mary Magdalen is in reality the first chapel used by the foundresses of this community. They called it St. Mary Magdalen's chapel and it was erected in 1822. It has been restored and handsomely embellished in memory of the early foundresses of the community. The altarpiece, Magdalen at the Foot of the Cross, is a gem of art. The statue of the Sacred Heart of Jesus occupies a conspicuous place immediately outside of the Sisters' cemetery, on a high stone pedestal, and visible from a long distance.

St. Catherine's Academy closed last June its most successful year's work with commencement exercises that compared favorably with those of the best educational institutions of the country. Indications point to even greater success during the coming year for these loyal women who work for God alone.

STUDY THE FAITH.

It goes without saying that every Catholic should learn and know his faith, says the able editor of the Catholic Sun. That, of course, has been always a duty, but in our age, when so many theories and schemes are put forward and championed by individuals of some distinction, it demands even a greater fidelity that will not be withheld by the earnest Catholic. Some years ago the study of Christian doctrine was more in evidence than at present. We had controversies which, whatsoever one may think of the good effected by them, were at least calculated to concentrate our attention on the points under discussion. The age of controversy, however, has passed and the arena is now occupied by the novelist and scientist, who have each his own method of teaching for the new order of things. They are for the most part advocates of what they term honest discussion, manliness; they talk mightily about following one's conscience and allude compassionately to the old-fashioned disputes of the past. They believe in a kind of God—a shadowy twentieth century God—and with a condescension truly touching commend the Sermon on the Mount and other parts of the New Testament. Their method of attack—for it is nothing else—on the church is more difficult to foil than that of the controversialist armed with bits and ends of texts. One hardly likes to dub a dulcet-tongued novelist with a penchant for home-made dogma an enemy, and to place a scientist with a mania for giving mysterious names to things he can not understand in the same category. But they are, unconsciously, if you like, warring against the faith, and the one way to meet and to conquer them is to give a prominent place among our studies and readings to the science of our Christian inheritance. And the more time we devote to that study the more shall we discover that the bland and unctuous novelist and scientist who compound up-to-date capsules are dangerous humbugs. They believe in following one's conscience. So do we, but it must be an educated conscience and not distorted through our own fault. "Conscience," said Cardinal Newman, "has rights because it has duties, but in this age with a large portion of the public it is the very right and freedom of conscience to dispense with conscience, to ignore a law giver and judge, to be independent of unseen obligations. Conscience is a stern monitor, but in this century it has been superseded by a counterfeit, which the eighteen centuries prior heard of, and could not have mistaken for it, if they had. It is the right of self-will." But we must not take them too seriously. The conscience business plays an important role in the motive novel, but we are convinced that to those who use it it has no meaning save that any pretext is good enough to justify blasphemy. They do not mean it, of course, but the pages of some much-heralded publications bristle with statements that show how well their authors despise St. Paul's "leading every undertaking to the obedience of faith."

NEITHER CAN RECEDE.

There never was such a thing as war between capital and labor. Labor is capital; the war is against the organization of capitalists to get the better of labor and reduce the laborer to a state of servitude and reap the lion's share of the profit of labor. Fifty years ago the manufacturer who became rich was respected and looked up to by his employees. The rich man of those days lived in an ordinary house and did not trouble himself about politics. The man placed in office today is placed there to be used to rob the producing classes, and his condition has brought into existence monopoly and combined capital against which labor makes war, and though often smothered it is a war to the finish. Labor will organize until it can compel the Morgans, Hannas and Rockefellers to cook their own breakfast and wash their own shirts, prophesies a leading manufacturer's trade journal. Neither monopoly nor labor can recede, but the present condition will go on until monopoly has been crushed. The two biggest monopolies ever known are in a deadly struggle.

HEIGHT OF GLORY.

The British Government first denied, then evaded and now frankly admits and even glories in the charge that it has armed the savage natives of South Africa and is using them in its war upon the Boers, just as it used the savage Redskins in its war upon us a century and a quarter ago. Furthermore Joseph Chamberlain has telegraphed Lord Kitchener that the Boers are violating "civilized usage" in summarily shooting any and all savages caught in battle.

For sheer "glory" the war Chamberlain and his colleagues are now carrying on in South Africa surpasses anything which even Britain has done in that line heretofore. It must make British citizens peculiarly proud of their country as they see it marching "in the foremost files of time," burning homes, robbing non-combatants, "concentrating" women and children to die of disease and seeking to conquer their unconquerable victims by exposing them to the hideous calamities incident to using against them the "black beasts" of Zululand and Matabeleland.

If such an enterprise does not prosper, then indeed must Britain's queer "god of battles" have forgotten all she has done for him. The real fight between the great steel trust and the Amalgamated Association will now take place, and the entire world anxiously awaits the outcome. Thus far about 100,000 men are affected, and that number may yet be largely augmented, as the right to organize for the purpose of securing better conditions and fair treatment is the principal issue involved in this monster strike. The course of President Shaffer and his followers thus far has been dignified and conservative, and now the masses of the people hope for the success of the workingmen.

The Louisville Gas Company has made a proposition to reduce the cost of lighting the City Hall 55 per cent. if the city will not erect its own plant. Why should the City Hall be lighted cheaper than any other public building? The citizens are entitled to the same reduction, and should take immediate steps looking toward the city owning its own plant for lighting purposes, which would secure the proposed reduction, not only for the City Hall but the entire community.

The Dowager Empress Frederick, mother of Emperor William of Germany and sister of King Edward of England, died Monday evening at Cronberg. She was the first child of Prince Albert and Queen Victoria. She was married to Prince Frederick, afterward for a short time Emperor of Prussia, in 1858, and her married life was rather stormy, she being at outs with Bismarck and the German aristocracy at different times.

Senator Deboe, C. M. Barnett and Nat Chretien have succeeded in defeating the reappointment of Mrs. Gertrude Sanders as Postmistress at New Castle. The plucky little woman made a gallant fight for the place, which pays only $50 per month, with which she hoped to support herself and two fatherless children. There were no charges against the lady, and the only explanation is that the "chivalrous" Kentucky Senator hopes to further his re-election by this very mean act.

Down in Hopkins county the non-union employees in the coal mines are charged with dastardly work. Sunday night the residences of the general manager of the Reinecke Coal Company and a union miner were fired into, making over a dozen instances of this kind, in which there were a number of miraculous escapes. The people fear going to bed and rewards are offered for the arrest of the culprits.

If, as Mr. Chamberlain says, there are "only a handful of irreconcilables" resisting British rule in South Africa, why does he need an army of 150,000 or 200,000 there? And why does he arm the savage Kaffirs to fight the Boers?

Announcement has been made of the engagement of Senator Joe Blackburn to Mrs. Mary Blackburn, for several years a clerk in the War Department at Washington. She is the widow of a distant relative of the Kentucky Senator.

The Syracuse Catholic Sun, in commenting on the recent decision in the O'Leary will case, says "Judge Toney is a credit to his bench. His logic is unassailable and his law is perfect."

Capt. James Parker, counsel for Admiral Schley, says the naval records will vindicate the accused officer of every charge brought against him.

RECENT DEATHS.

Sincere sympathy is felt for John and Margaret Egan, 208 Eleventh street, who sustained the loss of their pretty and interesting infant daughter Catherine Marie. The little one passed away Tuesday night, and her funeral took place Thursday morning.

The death of Miss Katie Vissing, daughter of Mrs. Catherine and the late William Vissing, 1723 Jackson street, last Sunday morning caused sincere sorrow among her wide circle of friends, by whom she was loved for her many Christian virtues. Besides her mother she leaves one sister, Miss Annie, to mourn her loss. Her funeral took place Tuesday morning from St. Boniface church, which was filled with friends of the bereaved family.

Another estimable young lady has passed away in the person of Miss Annie Dwyer, who died Sunday evening at the residence of her mother, Mrs. Bridget Dwyer, 1973 High avenue. Miss Dwyer was twenty-one years old, and her young womanhood was spent in the West End, where she formed the acquaintance of a large circle of friends, who mourn her early death. Her funeral took place Tuesday morning from St. Cecilia's church, where requiem mass was celebrated by Rev. Father Kalleher.

Last Sunday afternoon Miss Irene Stars, only daughter of Mrs. Anna Stars, passed peacefully away at the family residence, 2621 West Chestnut street. Miss Stars was a practical Catholic and had an exceptionally noble character. Her most happy hours were spent in doing kind acts toward those around her, and her amiable disposition won for her the love, admiration and respect of all with whom she came in contact. The funeral services were conducted by Father Raffa at St. Charles' church Tuesday morning and were most impressive. Miss Stars will be greatly missed by those who knew her and the bereaved mother has the sympathy of all.

A sad and mournful cortege followed the remains of Mrs. Mary Keane, wife of Michael Keane, of 1335 Rogers street, Saturday afternoon at St. John's church, where the funeral services were held. Mrs. Keane was the mother of Misses Mamie, Maggie and Katie Keane and John and James Keane. Her death resulted from a two days' illness of typhoid fever and heat prostration, and was a severe blow to her vast circle of friends. Mrs. Keane came to this country from Ireland when a young girl, and had since resided here. Rev. Father Bax officiated at the services and preached a feeling sermon, in which he paid high tribute to her worth as a wife, mother and Christian woman. May her soul rest in peace.

O'CASSIDY'S DAUGHTER.

Her hair from the sunbeams their radiance has stolen,
As with long, rippling glory it hides her from view,
And the deep azure light when young April has fallen
Is the glance of her eye in its heaven of blue.
Oh, love, truth and honor
And joy wait upon her
As she trips with the graces and walks by their rule,
For pleasure enthralls
And grows where she glances
O'Cassidy's daughter, Blush Rose of the Coole.

Her mouth in its dimples and witchery flaming
Where 'mid beauty's sweet curves the young loves have their birth,
While the blush of her cheek sets the painter dreaming
Of a lady supernatural no longer on earth,
Her laughter clear ringing,
Like pretty bringing
To the heart a new gladness in joytide of yule,
Maiden modesty taught her;
She lives o'er the water,
O'Cassidy's daughter, Blush Rose of the Coole.

Oh, she's glorious in graces of form and of motion,
And her heart, where young purity nestles secure,
Makes her like our young maidens least know the commotion
Her gladness or smiles cause our swains to endure.
May sweet joys caress thee
And heaven's love bless thee!
Thy mind's like the waters of the soft, limpid pool,
Thou dear Irish maiden,
Glory-crowned, beauty-laden,
O'Cassidy's daughter, Blush Rose of the Coole.
—[Rev. Robert Leech.]

Deputy Circuit Clerk Frank Dacher, one of the best known young men about the Court House, is spending his vacation at Red Sulphur Springs, Ind.

John Lavery, a well known resident of New Albany, left Saturday for Denver, where he will remain several months in the hope of being restored to perfect health.

Mrs. James McKenna and son, Master Henry, of Fairfield, are the guests of Charles White, 1921 West Jefferson street, with whom they may remain till after the Conclave.

Mr. Spalding Coleman returned this week from the Michigan summer resorts, where he spent the heated term, looking the picture of health and happiness. His family will return before the Conclave.

Miss Beatrice Boyd, a charming visitor from Zanesville, Ohio, arrived here this week to be the guest of her aunt, Mrs. W. J. Corbett, 1328 Twenty-second street, during the balance of the summer season.

Among the pretty visitors here this week was Miss Lena Friedrich, of Mount Carmel, Ill., who came to be the guest of and attend the wedding of her cousin, Miss Mary Zoll, 506 East St. Catherine street.

Mrs. Isabelle Coleman, of Marion county, is at Sts. Mary and Elizabeth Hospital, to remain a few weeks with her daughter, Sister Agnita, of Nazareth, who will spend a large part of her vacation here.

Mrs. Edward Cowan and daughters, Misses May and Virginia, will leave tomorrow for their home in Dayton, O., after a delightful two week's visit with relatives and friends here, all of whom regret their departure.

Miss Katie Rabenecker and Joseph Lawson, two well known young people, gave their friends a pleasant surprise by being quietly married at Holy Cross church, Rev. Father Cunningham performing the ceremony.

The euchar and social given at Holy Trinity school hall in New Albany last Tuesday afternoon and evening by the Married Women's Club of Holy Trinity church was largely attended and greatly enjoyed by those who were present.

Patrick Tracy arrived at his home in Jeffersonville on Saturday after a pleasant visit at Whiting, Ind., accompanied by his daughter, Mrs. Beach, nee Miss Katherine Tracy, who was one of Jeffersonville's most accomplished and attractive belles.

Jack Shelley, the courteous and obliging teller of the German Bank, left this week for a month's stay at Niagara Falls and Buffalo. For some time past Mr. Shelley has not been entirely well, but his friends hope his trip will result in his complete recovery.

James Martiu, one of the best known young men on the Courier-Journal, returned Thursday from a three weeks' visit with friends in Greeley county, Neb. He says that part of the country is thickly populated with industrious and prosperous Irishmen.

A private picnic was given at Cherokee Park in honor of Miss Lillie Keiran. Those present were Misses Del and Mollie Keiran, Fidelia Squash and Lillie Keiran, Messrs. John Bishop, Felix Allgier, Louis Koster and Willie Squash. The party was chaperoned by Mr. and Mrs. Squash.

The euchar given Wednesday night at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Richards, East Fifth street, New Albany, for the benefit of St. Edward's Hospital was a grand social success and was greatly enjoyed by the large number who attended. These functions are attracting the best people over the river.

Miss Anna Schmitt and Louis Lewis, both prominent in New Albany society circles, were the contracting parties in a pretty marriage ceremony solemnized Tuesday morning at St. Mary's church. Rev. Dean Faller tied the wedding knot and was the celebrant of the nuptial mass, which was largely attended by friends and relatives of the happy young couple.

Among the most notable of this week's social events was the delightful reception and euchar given Wednesday evening at the residence of John F. Sullivan, 314 East Breckinridge street, in honor of Miss Jennie Sullivan, a pretty Frankfort girl who is here visiting her cousins. After the distribution of prizes and a number of artistically rendered vocal and instrumental solos the guests of the evening were seated at tables bounteously laden with the season's delicacies. Among those present were Misses Nora Sullivan, Mayne Manning, Bessie O'Brien, Edith Ferris, Julia Moran, Mary Clines, Jennie Sullivan, Mary Newman, Reta Sullivan, Mary Noonan, Margaret and Abbie O'Brien, Mrs. Thomas O'Brien, Messrs. Joseph O'Brien, William Kennedy, Tom Clines, Will Smith, Lew Baker, Charles and J. C. Noonan, William Newman, John O'Brien, Charles and Edward Sullivan.

COUNTRY SKETCHES.

Mrs. Joseph Cunningham and two children, Eugene and James Nevin, have returned from a trip to Marion county. Many spots of beauty and interest were visited in Marion and Nelson counties, some of which will form the foundation of charming sketches for Eastern publications during the fall of the present year. Friends of Mrs. Cunningham are anxious to have these bits of woodland appear in local journals, but we believe her preference is for Eastern magazines.

EXTRA POLICE.

One hundred and fifty extra police will be appointed Monday, August 20, to serve during Conclave week. Though the pay for the six days only amounts to $13.50 there are hundreds of applicants for the positions. These men will be placed on beats in the suburbs and will have little to do but watch property.

HIBERNIANS.

What They Have Been Doing the Past Week—General News Notes.

Division 3 will not meet again until the first Monday in September.

Division 2 has elected President Meehan its representative in the Catholic Union.

Division 2 had a splendid meeting Thursday night and much interest was taken in the proceedings.

John J. Sullivan has succeeded Charles Obst as Secretary of Division 2. The members have in him a splendid officer.

Officer J. J. Beirne, Thomas Hannan and John Byron will look after the interest of the unemployed members for the coming year.

Vice President Con Ford has become quite a finished orator. His remarks Thursday night were frequently interrupted by applause.

The members of Division 3 were pained to learn of the illness of Walter Joyce and Con Kalleher, two old-time and true Hibernians.

Messrs. Thomas Hannan, Dan McKenna, Jerry O'Leary, Martin Minogue and John Byron constitute the Standing Committee of Division 2.

In the absence of President Cavanaugh the chair was occupied by Mike Hoban Monday night. His rulings were fair and pleased those present.

State President Quinn has instituted another new division at Providence. The exercises were attended by the Hibernian Rifles. Among the members are the names of many prominent citizens.

Secretary Tynan has sent out special notices to the members of Division 1 to attend the meeting Tuesday night. Important matters requiring immediate consideration will be submitted, and all should be present.

The divisions of the Blackstone Valley in Rhode Island have arranged for a great union field day and parade on Labor day. Two hands have been engaged and some very fine prizes will be offered the winners of the different athletic contests.

The public installation of officers of the Ladies' Auxiliary of Providence last week attracted a large throng, the hall being filled to its utmost capacity. Hibernianism is flourishing in Rhode Island, where State President Quinn encourages the divisions with his presence very frequently.

Pat Welsh and Thomas Quinn, two newly elected members of Division 3, manifested much interest in the proceedings Monday night. Both took part in the discussion of the most important questions and proved themselves able and ready speakers. The order needs more members like them.

FASHION'S FOIBLES.

The fashion for ends is seen again on a mousseline gown with a narrow black velvet belt fastened at one side with a rosette and many loops and ends. Two rosettes at the back each with its hunch of ends form another style of ash.

If you look for the latest thing in black and white gowns you will see a white muslin trimmed elaborately with ecru Cluny and black Chantilly, a combination chic in the extreme, but one which must be artistically manipulated or it can not be a success.

Lace rosettes with silk tassels in the center are another new device in trimming. Scarfs of spotted and handsome soft broadened ribbons are knotted and twisted across the front of bodices and sweetly all the ways in which ribbon can be used are appropriated.

Ribbons of all kinds are much used in decoration, showing great variety in the modes of arranging them. Quaint arabesque designs carried out in narrow ribbons trim some of the summer gowns, and most novel of all is the ribbon rosette with tassels falling from the center.

The embroidered mulls and batiste gowns are quite as chic as any of the thin gowns, and it is in this material that we see the three flounce skirt. The flounces are circular in shape and with the embroidered edges they are very effective, but not so popular as trimming which gives the longer lines.

Taffeta mousseline in either black or white is one of the most popular fabrics, with everything desired in the way of luster. It is made up in various ways with fine tucks and lace insertions in vertical or horizontal lines, but the latest phase in its construction is a foundation dress of flowered white taffeta.

Both long and short plumes are used. Long plumes beginning under the brim at one side and carried around the crown make a very becoming effect on a large hat, especially if it is black. The Marquise hat is very popular, and the use of narrow black velvet ribbon is shown on another style of hat in fancy atraw.

The most charming thin gowns worn by the matron this season are the black flowered muslins made over white taffeta and trimmed with the openwork, black mousseline embroidery, which forms the flounce, and the sleeves lined only with white chiffon and finished with a black Chantilly frill over one of white lace.

Outing hats are in greater variety than ever this season and yet the summer girl has appropriated the Panama and adopted it to her use with her usual cleverness. The high price makes it simply irresistible, even though it is not half so becoming as the pretty stitched white silk hats draped around the crown with a soft scarf.

Black and white is a universal combination in millinery, and especially in all sorts of hats and wings and scarfs so commonly used on the shirt waist hat. Cherries, either black or red, are a very popular trimming for a simple straw hat to wear in the morning, while for the more dressy order of headgear feathers, flowers and lace are the things to have.

IRELAND.

Record of the Most Important of the Recent Events Culled From Exchanges.

The New Ross regatta was held in very hot weather. Dublin University and many of the leading South of Ireland crews competed.

Another drowning case occurred at Curley's Hole, Dollymounat, on Friday, the victim being a boy named Thomas Norris, of Bolton street.

The Cork Daily Herald ceased publication July 27, the concern having been purchased by the publishers of the Cork Examiner. The Herald was a pronounced Healyite organ.

On Monday it was reported in Nenagh that James Broderick, sub-agent on the Tipperary property of Howard Stafford O'Brien, Blatherwick Hall, Norfolk, had resigned his position.

On Friday his Grace the Archbishop of Dublin laid and blessed the foundation stone and ground of the new Catholic chapel and Nuns' residence attached to the Rathdown workhouse at Loughlinstown.

In deference to the strongly expressed demand of Edmund Bourke, Local Government Board Inspector, the Borrisokane Guardians have taken steps to carry out extensive improvements in the workhouse.

On Saturday morning William Murphy, a young Dublin chemist, was found dead at his residence on Stephen's Green. The deceased had been in good health and the cause of his sudden death is unexplained.

The Belleek Pottery Company turned out to the order of George Doherty, Creggan road, Derry, a magnificent pair of vases for presentation to Sir Thomas Lipton on his departure from Greenock for America.

An inquest was held on Friday at the municipal buildings, Cork into the circumstances attending the drowning of a youth named Timothy Riordan, of Greenmount. A verdict of accidental death was returned.

On Tuesday P. C. Cowan, Chief Engineering Inspector of the Local Government Board, held an inquiry in the Town Hall, Athlone, into an application for a loan of $40,000 to erect artisans' dwellings in the town.

At the Belfast assizes before the Lord Chief Baron, Bernard McVeigh, charged with wounding Bernard McKenna, was found not guilty, although evidence was given that the accused was a member of a riotous crowd who shouted, "There's another Fenian down!"

Sunday being the Sunday within the octave of the Feast of Our Lady of Mount Carmel was observed with great solemnity in the Carmelite church in Dublin. His Grace the Archbishop presided. Sermons were preached morning and evening by the Rev. Dr. Butler, O. C. C.

The trial of Arthur Trew, Richard Braithwaite, Robert Calvert and Thomas Greaves, members of the Belfast Protestant Association who were committed for participating in illegal conspiracy to cite riot, was commenced on Tuesday at the Belfast City assizes before the Lord Chief Baron.

At the Killaloe petty sessions James Coffey, solicitor, Limerick; William McKeogh and James Moore, of Ballina, were prosecuted by the Limerick Fishery Conservators for illegally using an instrument called an "otter" for fishing purposes in the River Shannon at Killaloe. Fines of $20 and costs were imposed in each case.

On Saturday in the case of Morrissey, a bankrupt, and his brother the Court of Appeal decided that the order of Judge Boyd sentencing them to imprisonment for an alleged criminal offence in connection with the bankruptcy was right. The case involved questions as to the Judge's powers and whether the defendants were entitled to trial by jury.

A man named Francis Kennedy lies in a critical condition in Barrington's Hospital as the result of having been stabbed in the eye in a street row at Limerick. Kennedy states that he saw two brothers named Patrick and Francis Meara heating his brother, and going to his assistance he was attacked by the Mearas and stabbed in the eye with something sharp. The Mearas have been arrested and remanded.

At Limerick petty sessions Michael Roche was charged with having assaulted Constables Portobello and Cotrell by biting them and with kicking Acting Sergeant Healy. It appeared from the evidence that prisoner hit Constable Portobello so severely on the legs, arm and hand that he was under treatment at Barrington's Hospital. Roche, who is an old offender, was sentenced to nine months' imprisonment.

Justice Leonard, the well known Dublin salesmaster, Mrs. Leonard and a relative, Miss Mangen, while traveling by the electric tram along the North Circular road had a very narrow escape from fatal injury. A live wire snapped in two and the broken parts fell where the party was seated on the top of the car, burning the clothes of the three, who promptly extricated themselves from their perilous position.

At Belfast Justice Baron on Friday resumed the hearing of the trial of John and Sarah Jane Wilson, indicted for unlawfully neglecting to provide their servant, Agnes Garvey, with sufficient food, clothing and lodging, so that her life was endangered. The girl died in May last. At the conclusion of the defense his Lordship directed the jury to acquit the female prisoner, as she was not criminally liable. After a short absence the jury found the male prisoner not guilty and he was acquitted and his wife was also discharged.

On Tuesday morning the Lord Chief Justice sat in the City Court house, Cork, and took up the hearing of the Tallow conspiracy case, in which the defendants were charged with conspiring to intimidate and boycott David O'Keefe, shopkeeper in the town of Tallow. The travelers were P. F. Walsh, Chairman Waterford County Council; Alex. Heiskins, John Magrath, Michael Cunningham, Redmond O'Brien, Matthew O'Brien, Cornelius Ronayne, Laurence Walsh and J. J. Walsh. Thirty-two jurors were ordered to stand by the Crown.

The death took place on Friday morning at his residence, Edwardstown, Ballynecilly, of John Russell, J. P., whose genial nature made him most popular in the county. Mr. Russell was sixty years of age and had only recently returned from London, where he underwent an operation for some internal complaint. His father was largely engaged in the bacon trade, and in 1829, when a fire occurred at his stores, the melted fat ran in rivulets through the streets, according to the recollection of some very old inhabitants. Deceased was High Sheriff for County Limerick many years ago.

A plucky rescue from drowning was witnessed on Saturday at Mount Kennet quay, Limerick. A man named Ryan tripped over a rope and fell into the Shannon. He would certainly have been drowned had not John Mulqueen, without taking off any of his clothes, plunged in and held up Ryan until a boat was brought round, when both were brought ashore. Several sailors were on board a ship close by, but none of them made any attempt at rescue. John Mulqueen is a brother of Joseph Mulqueen, who gallantly attempted to save the life of a blind man in the Shannon some months since.

On Friday the Lord Chief Baron opened the Belfast City assizes. In addressing the jury his Lordship referred to the four persons charged with conspiracy, which was in connection with the Catholic jubilee procession about five weeks ago. It will be remembered that the processionists were violently attacked by persons who, it is alleged, were incited to the act by the four men charged, among whom was the preacher Trew. His Lordship said as a riot was a crime it followed that an agreement between two or more to incite others to commit a crime was a conspiracy and as such was indictable.

On Friday evening it was discovered that a horse belonging to J. Murphy, of Ballynewport, which had been grazing on Oakley Park, near Killough, had received a wound on the neck, and shortly afterward a mare, the property of Patrick

Burns, of Ballygallen, an adjoining townland, had been found wounded in a similar manner and died shortly afterward. The matter having been reported to the police on Saturday morning Messrs. Dunlop, Hughes and Blackwood, veterinary surgeons from Downpatrick, made a post-mortem. A few days ago the tail was pulled off a cow belonging to John Gibben, at Kildare's Crew, near Ardglass, for which a claim for compensation has been lodged.

Nine calves belonging to Frank Burke, of Bradford, County Clare, died on Sunday most mysteriously. It seems that they were fed on milk as usual out of a trough in the morning and on Burke's return from mass they were in a dying condition. Later on a messenger was dispatched for Surgeon Ryan, of Limerick, and on his arrival he found eight calves dead, while another died soon afterward. Ryan made post-mortem examinations of the bodies and came to the conclusion that death was the result of some irritant poison. He brought away for analysis some of the contents of the stomachs and some cream skimmed from the milk given to the calves that day. The police are inquiring into the strange affair, which has created quite a sensation in the neighborhood, as Burke is most popular among all classes.

To a deputation representing the Cork City regatta committee the Lord Chief Justice on Monday in Cork said he was most anxious that on the occasion of the Cork Exhibition next year an international boat race should be held on the River Lee. He favored the site used by the regatta committee for their annual regatta. He thought the stretch of water from Dunkettle to the promenade quay most suitable. He would guarantee a substantial challenge cup, and he deputized the deputation to act as a committee for the purpose of carrying out all the arrangements and making the race an unqualified success. He suggested to the deputation that they should write to all rowing clubs in the United Kingdom on the subject with a view to securing their co-operation in every way possible. The deputation promised to carry out the wishes of his Lordship.

USEFUL HINTS.

It is said that parsley eaten with onions will destroy the offensive odor that affects the breath. The parsley should be served in sprigs and eaten as you would celery.

Clean carved ivory with a paste of dampened sawdust and a few drops of lemon juice. Lay it on thickly, allow it to dry and then remove with a nail-brush.

Rub a curtain pole with kerosene oil until it is perfectly smooth, using a woolen cloth for the purpose. The pole rings will run much more easily if the pole is treated in this manner.

Glass that has a smoky appearance may be cleaned by applying diluted nitric acid when soap, turpentine, alcohol or scouring with whitening would make no impression on them. Water of ammonia is also effective.

An excellent gargle for the throat is simply salt and water. Many serious cases of throat affection might be cured by the use of this alone if only taken in time, gargling every hour or half hour, as the need warrants.

Breathing exercises are beneficial to every organ. They give the body an erect bearing and increase the faculty for work. Whether one hopes to excel either in mental or physical work, the ability to breathe deeply is valuable.

If metal teapots are not used for some time they acquire a peculiar, unpleasant odor, frequently giving a disagreeable taste to tea made in them. It is said that this may be obviated by dropping a lump of sugar into the pot when it is put away.

Lemon Sherbet—Put in a vessel one-half pound powdered sugar with one quart cold water; grate in the rind of one large lemon and the juice of three large ones; beat well for five minutes; put in a freezer and finish as for ice cream.

Another tone of color which seems to have come round again is the copper shade which is pretty enough, but not always becoming. The color which stands out most conspicuously in the panorama of dress, however, is pale blue.

SAVAGES

Employed by England to Exterminate the Brave Boers.

The South African Outlook Continues Unrelieved of Gloom.

The Rebellion in Cape Colony Is Steadily Becoming More Widespread.

YEOMAN CAN NOT SHOOT OR FIGHT

Though Commandant Kritzinger's shooting of Gen. French's native "scouts" arouses a furious protest here, the avowal that England has enlisted savages to aid in exterminating the Boers has given the nation pause, says the World's London correspondent. This is not only a violation of the express pledge given by Mr. Balfour at the outset of the war, but it is contrary to all civilized usages. Still the natives have rendered service after their kind to the British forces on the Swaziland border. They were employed both in the relief of Mafeking from the north and by Gen. Baden-Powell in defense of that place.

None know better than the British in South Africa that when you put arms into the hands of the natives and send them to fight it means that every rule of civilized warfare will be abandoned, that no quarter will be given, that the wounded will be murdered, and that other and nameless horrors will be perpetrated. Gen. French himself sent Zulus to harass the Boers in Northeastern Transvaal by raiding their cattle. He was shifted from that command in consequence of it, owing to the protest from the Natal Government.

Both sides have used natives with their transport trains, but Gen. French has been the first to acknowledge that he employed them as scouts. The Boers think they have enough to face in England's 250,000 men without being placed at the mercy of hordes of black barbarians. The South African outlook continues to be unrelieved of gloom.

Chancellor of the Exchequer Beach has been forced to admit that the war is costing $10,000,000 a week—not $650,000, as was estimated by the War Office recently—and he can not hold out the slightest encouragement that it will end before Christmas.

It is believed in military circles that the outfitting of the Boers will cost England $1,000,000,000. The operations have now entered upon their most obstinate stage. The rebellion in Cape Colony is steadily becoming more widespread, owing to exasperation caused by the inexorable treatment of the rebels. The Boers have been nearer Cape Town in the past fortnight than at any time during the war. Then the policy of replacing regulars by yeomanry proved disastrous. Lord Kitchener has sent home a large percentage of the yeomen recently shipped to him because they can not ride, shoot or fight. Among the regulars the Imperial yeomanry are known as the "I'm Yours" brigade, from their inveterate habit of surrendering.

THE ZOO.

The Zoological Garden has attracted large crowds every night this week, and last night thousands went out to witness the fireworks. Manager Sheehan has secured vaudeville stars for next week. He is daily becoming more popular with the amusement loving public.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS.

The Knights of Columbus of this city and their invited friends will have an enjoyable day's outing at Fern Grove on Wednesday, August 21. These affairs are very select, and those are fortunate who receive invitations. This splendid society of Catholics is one of the most influential in the country, and the reports from all the States are very gratifying, clergymen and laymen joining in large numbers.

IRON MOLDERS' DAY.

The forty-second annual picnic of Iron Molders' Union 16 will take place Monday at Fern Grove, and the members of this pioneer labor union look forward to the event with ecstasy. The committee in charge are all well known gentlemen and know how to make their friends happy on such an occasion. They are John Cavanaugh, John Fernow, Vic Nicholas, William Russell, Gus Hubbuch, Albert Volz and William Reinhardt. The boats leave First street at 9:30 and 1:30, and as this is the best labor outing of the season large numbers of workingmen and their families will attend.

EARNST WORKERS.

Prominent Ladies in the St. Anthony Sewing Society.

Last Monday evening the second meeting of the St. Anthony Sewing Society took place at the temporary home of the Franciscan Sisters on East Gray street, with a large and gratifying attendance, prominent ladies of nearly all the parishes responding to the call. The membership has increased to such an extent that the dues collected amounted to over $200, and Mrs. John Walters, the President, and the good Sisters now feel that the success of the St. Anthony Sewing Society is assured.

The office of Vice President not having been filled, the honor was conferred upon Mrs. Charles Smith, of the Cathedral, who was chosen by acclamation. It was also decided to have a Vice President from every parish to assist the executive officers, when the following well known ladies were selected:

Cathedral—Mrs. Anna Wathen.
St. John's—Mrs. James O'Connor.
St. Louis Bertrand—Miss Emma Depen.
St. Mary Magdalen—Mrs. Emma Waller.
St. Martin's—Mrs. John Dacher.
St. Joseph's—Miss Teresa Weiss.
St. Francis of Assisi—Mrs. Michael Ziemlich.
St. Brigid's—Mrs. J. R. Stey.
St. Vincent de Paul—Mrs. J. J. Brunelle.
St. Cecilia's—Miss Minnie Regan.
St. Philip Neri—Miss Mary S. Fogarty.
Blessed Sacrament—Mrs. Mary Hussey.
St. Boniface—Mrs. Frank A. Geher.

All present were deeply interested in the work planned for them, and the Sisters and ladies would be glad to meet lady representatives of the missing congregations at the next meeting, which will be held Monday evening, September 2. All are earnestly urged to come, that the chain may reach from east to west, from north to south, with not one link missing from the grand chain that has been formed for sweet charity.

TRANSFERRED.

The Echo contains the announcement of the transfer of the Rev. Father William Haggarty, for years the beloved and zealous rector of St. Catherine's church at New Haven, to Nazareth Academy, where he will be stationed in the future. While his removal is regretted he carries with him the best wishes of the people of New Haven and vicinity, irrespective of creed or color, for his future happiness.

BOYCOTT UPHOLD.

The British House of Lords has rendered an important judgment affecting trades unions. The case was brought up on appeal from the judgement of the Irish courts awarding a wholesale butcher damages against the Butchers' Assistants' Association, which brought pressure to bear on retailers to boycott the plaintiff until he dismissed a certain nonunion employe, threatening otherwise to call out the union employes of the firms concerned and finally induced the non-unionists to leave the plaintiff. The Lords dismissed the appeal on the ground that the alleged acts of wrongful and malicious conspiracy were not undertaken to advance the interests of the workmen themselves, but solely to injure the plaintiff.

EVENING OF PLEASURE.

An ice cream festival for the benefit of the Blessed Sacrament church will be given Tuesday evening at Beechwood Park, on State street, near the Blind Asylum. The young ladies of the immaculate Conception Sodality are taking great interest in this festival, and a pleasant time is in store for all who attend. This beautiful suburban hilltop is reached by the Market street and Clifton cars and affords opportunity for an enjoyable ride. The zealous pastor, Rev. D. O'Sullivan, and the leading members of the congregation will be there to greet the visitors, and none should forget to avail themselves of this opportunity to aid the Blessed Sacrament church.

BY LAND AND SEA.

$10 to Mackinac and Northern Michigan Points.

On Wednesday, August 14, the Monon Route will sell tickets from Louisville to Mackinac, Petoskey, Bay View and Charlevoix and return at $10 by way of Chicago and the sumptuous steamer Manitou. The steamer sails Thursday morning, August 16, at 11 o'clock. Tickets good returning fifteen days. Meals a la carte and berths from $1 to $2, according to location. As party is limited to 150 early application should be made for accommodations. Further particulars furnished on application to E. H. Bacon, District Passenger Agent, Monon Route, Louisville, Ky.

CATHOLIC ABSTAINERS.

Notable Temperance Assembly Meeting at Hartford, Conn.

The annual convention of the Catholic Total Abstinence Union of America opened at Hartford, Conn., on Wednesday to last four days, and extraordinary efforts were inaugurated to strengthen the organization. The membership has been steadily increasing, especially since the silver jubilee convention, which was held in New York City in the summer of 1895 under the patronage of Archbishop Corrigan, and now the rolls contain nearly 100,000 names. One of the affiliated clubs in Chicago is made up exclusively of lawyers. Another, the League of the Cross of San Francisco, is a uniformed body of young men organized into military companies. The League gave a reception to President McKinley when he paid a visit to the Pacific coast a few months ago.

One of the peculiarities of the National Union is that it does not believe that rum is necessarily bad in itself or that saloons run in strict accordance with excise laws are the worst things in the world. But, says the union, as it is impossible to bring about a moderate use of alcoholic beverages or anything like a decent observance of excise laws by saloon-keepers there is only one course left open to temperance advocates, and that is to enjoin total abstinence as the only panacea for the evils that follow in the wake of the liquor traffic. The union is also non-political and is not in sympathy with the Prohibition party.

The convention was preceded by a meeting of the Executive Council and Presidents and Secretaries of diocesan unions. Just before the regular proceedings opened pontifical high mass was celebrated for the delegates by Bishop Tierney.

BIG TURN OUT.

The regular weekly meeting of the Labor Day Committee of the Central Labor Union was held Tuesday night, when it was reported that fifty-six organizations had promised to participate in the great Labor day parade. This should prove the largest parade ever given by organized labor in this city, and every effort will be made to make the day the most notable in the history of Louisville.
